FOREWORD

This bibliography represents the first completed portion of a project undertaken under the Civil Works Administration. It was originally endorsed by the librarians of five Chicago libraries: John Crerar, Newberry, Northwestern University, Public, and University of Chicago. It was submitted to the Civil Works Administration through Mr. Carl B. Roden, Librarian of the Chicago Public Library, as a part of "a survey and listing of the publications of public and private agencies in Chicago which issue reports, statistics, studies, surveys, etc., on subjects of public interest."

Originally the project was set up under the Woman's Division of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission. It was later transferred to the Federal Civil Works Administration, and was finished under the auspices of the Illinois Emergency Relief Commission. For the possibility of undertaking and completing the project thanks are due to the sympathetic interest of Mr. Robert J. Dunham, Chairman, Illinois Emergency Relief Commission; Mr. Wilfred S. Reynolds, Executive Secretary of the Federal Civil Works Administration of Illinois; Dr. Martin H. Bickham, Director of Work Relief for the State of Illinois; Mrs. Mary Gillette Moon, Director of Women's Work, and her assistants who aided in the selection of suitable personnel and in the continuation of the project.

The planning and general supervision of the project were left to the Document Section of the University of Chicago Libraries.

For the successful completion of the project thanks must be expressed to those who worked on it: Miss Pauline Downing, Miss Julia A. Elliott, Mrs. Ilona S. Luhmann, Mrs. Mary Ruth Jones, and Miss Mildred M. Miller. The work was carried out under the immediate direction of Mr. James G. Hodgson, and the credit for actual accomplishment belongs in large measure to him.

Cooperation on the part of the various libraries was important. Printed cards were donated by the John Crerar Library, the Library of Congress, and the University of Chicago Libraries, and these formed the provisional list against which the holdings of libraries were checked. All of the libraries gave freely of their time and space in order to facilitate the work, while the Municipal Reference Library supplied a typewritten copy on sheets of the pertinent material in its catalog. Particular mention should be made of the personnel in charge of the Civics Room of the Public Library which cheerfully accepted the confusion inevitable from the added force which occupied the limited space near its document shelves. Space for the making of the original list, for editing and mimeographing, was provided by the University of Chicago Libraries, which also met the incidental expenses of mimeographing and issuing this list.

A. F. Kuhlman

INTRODUCTION

This list attempts to record the publications of the local governments which have jurisdiction within the limits of Chicago and Cook County and to show in which libraries they are available. Besides Cook County and the City of Chicago, which are similar to counties and cities in other parts of the United States, there are a number of overlapping local bodies, public and semi-public, whose publications are here included.

Having the same boundary lines as Cook County, the Forest Preserves District is nevertheless a separate municipal corporation with its own taxing powers, whose only connection with Cook County itself is that the members of the Board of Commissioners are ex-officio members of the Board of Forest Preserve Commissioners. In the city itself the various park districts were in the past entirely distinct, self contained bodies, although as a result of the popular vote of April 10, 1934, they have been combined into a single district. Under the new plan the Chicago Park Commissioners will bear about the same relation to the city government as do the present Board of Education and the Board of Directors of the Public Library. The Sanitary District is another independent body whose territorial limits have been determined not by existing political boundaries, but by the geographical factors controlling drainage in the vicinity of Chicago.

Chicago also has a number of organizations which can be classified only as "semi-official". While not strictly governmental they have a public function which closely identifies them with the life of the city. Some of these institutions receive public support. Others occupy public grounds or are in publicly owned buildings or are required to have public representation on their governing boards. In each case there is at least one such factor - in addition to its activities of a public nature - which takes it out of the class of a private organization.

Considerable difficulty was encountered in determining which material was to be classified as "official". Neither Chicago or Cook County has a central printing office whose imprint marks the official character of the various items. Hence many publications issued by various agencies of the government carry no indication of their official origin. This is particularly true of proposed ordinances which often carry no information as to their status or the authority upon which they were issued. In reality many such "ordinances" were issued by private groups as an indication to what they thought should be given legal status. Due to this situation undoubtedly some publications not official have been included, while others have been improperly excluded.

The list was started by means of the printed cards which the Library of Congress, the John Crerar, and the University of Chicago Libraries have issued. This provisional list was then checked against the catalogs of four Libraries for holdings: John Crerar, University of Chicago, Public, and Municipal Reference Libraries. In the case of the Municipal Reference Library the list was checked against a typewritten copy of the entries in that library's catalog under the subject headings, Chicago and Cook County. Holdings in the Civics Room of the Public Library, however, were made up from the documents themselves on the shelves. This actual handling of material, together with the checking of several hundred doubtful cases on the shelves in other libraries, was responsible for the discovery of a number of variant editions and reprints which would not have been brought to light had the catalogs alone been used. While every effort commensurate with the limited time available for making the list was taken to insure correct listings, undoubtedly minor errors have crept in.

Begun as a "union list" of four libraries, the compilers cannot claim completeness for their work, even though all known titles were included. The fact that the major collections of local documents in Chicago were checked however raises the hope that the list may serve as a preliminary check list. While manuscript material of an "archives" nature was excluded, typewritten copies of reports and hearings were included.

The following abbreviations were adopted to indicate the libraries whose holdings have been checked:

J John Crerar Library
 M Municipal Reference Library
 P Public Library
 P-C Public Library, Civics Room
 U University of Chicago Libraries

Entries have in general been listed alphabetically under the issuing offices or agencies, which are also alphabetized as authors according to Library of Congress rules. Thus ordinances have been grouped together, although proposed ordinances are put under the recommending office when known. Both imprint and collation have been shortened. Place should be understood to be Chicago unless otherwise indicated. Publisher is omitted when the same as author but the printer is always given when known. In the case of annual reports, the dates given are for the period covered, not imprint dates.

In order to facilitate use, references have been made in the index to the more important subjects which have been treated by different offices. For the same reason references have been made to certain personal authors and to inverted corporate author names.

For such faults as the list may have the undersigned wishes to acknowledge responsibility. For the opportunity of working on the project he wishes to thank Dr. A. F. Kuhlman, Associate Director of the University of Chicago Libraries, who conceived the project and whose interest and helpful advice did much towards bringing it to a successful conclusion. For much of the value and accuracy of the list he wishes to thank those who worked with him, particularly Mrs. Ilona S. Luhmann, who assisted in handling a large part of the detail of editing copy.

CHICAGO CHARTER CONVENTION, 1905-1909

Authorized by legislative act of May 6, 1905, and by popular vote on Nov.7,1905, the Convention, composed of representatives of the different governmental bodies which include Chicago, met on Dec.12,1905. A proposed charter was taken to the state legislature in 1907 which passed it as a law on Mar.12,1907, but it was rejected by popular vote on Sept.17,1907. The convention then reassembled and in 1909 re-issued the charter in the form of 11 bills, none of which were passed by legislature

SANITARY DISTRICT

A municipality organized by the Illinois Act approved May 29, 1889. The first Board of trustees was elected December 12, 1889 and took office in January, 1890. Originally the district did not include all of the city of Chicago, although it did include some 42 square miles to the west of the city. Later the territory was extended to take in all of Chicago and much of the rest of Cook County.
